Golf called gowf in Scots, originated in Scotland during the 15th century. Over the years, it has gradually developed to its present form from the earlier practice of hitting a pebble with a primitive club in the sand dunes.

The popularity of Golf has made it a universal game. Golf resorts have sprung up all over the world and each has its own unique features.

Extra Facilities at Golf Resorts

Golf resorts are not merely golf courses but they are resorts that offer enjoyable vacations as well. Generally golf resorts offer many other facilities to help the golfer and his family relax and enjoy. The golfer needs the maximum amount of relaxation after a hard day at the course. A wide range of facilities and amenities like, fitness centers, healthy cuisines, spas and aerobic classes are offered.

Personal Training programs

Many golf resorts are now providing personal training services, taught by experienced teaching professional, to help improve the golfers'™ playing capabilities. Fitness training programs are also available to improve the fitness levels of the golfers through training in flexibility, stability and strength.

How to find the best Golf resort

The Internet is the best and the most convenient way to locate good golf resorts. You have to browse through the various relevant sites and find the most appropriate resort where you can enjoy your game of golf and unwind. Check the facilities that they offer and match them with your own requirements. It is important to find out whether they have fitness centers, health resorts, spas, training studios and fitness instructors.

Go For Healthy Cuisine

At the golf course you will shed a lot of calories throughout the day. Therefore, after a day at the golf course you would need to refuel yourself. And what better way to refuel than by having a non traditional healthy meal.

A few days at golf resorts will transform you into a completely different person as far as your body, attitude and game is concerned. You will feel the power oozing out of you. When your golf vacation is over, you will start planning the next one immediately.
